Thought for the Week: Laughter gives us distance. It allows us to step back from an event, deal with it and then move on. Bob Newhart

BENEFIT DINNER

A Baked Potato Bar benefit for Kiara Bowers will be held on Saturday, October 19 at the First Christian Church Fellowship Hall, 202 E Second St, Warren, IN. Serving will be from 4 to 7 p.m. and carry outs are available.

The menu will include Baked Potato, Applesauce, Assorted Desserts, Bottled Water. Toppings for potatoes include: 1. Ham, broccoli, cheese sauce 2. Taco meat and all the "fixin's" 3. Pulled pork, sauerkraut, BBQ sauce.

Kiara Bowers is the daughter of Warren Police Officer Jason Caley and has recently undergone a heart transplant after a three-year illness. In those 3 years, she has endured eight heart catheterizations, a double bypass, placement of an LVAD (heart pump), implantation of an internal defibrillator, a failed heart transplant in which to donor heart was declared non viable after she was already on the OR table, and recently, a heart attack.

Jason is the only source of income for the family and is working multiple jobs to try and keep up with expenses.

We would like to do what we can, as a community, to help alleviate some of the financial stress for the family of this public servant and allow them to focus on Kiara's health and recovery.

Kudos, Kicks & Karats

First things first, I want to congratulate Barbara Souder for celebrating 60 years with Heritage Pointe. What an accomplishment. She has devoted her entire work life there and I must say it was a pleasure working with her. There was not a day that went by that you didn't meet her in the hallway and as always she met you with a smile and a hello. Thank you Barbara for all you have done to make Heritage Pointe a remarkable place to live.

I too have had many years under my belt at Heritage Pointe, 38 to be exact and would I do it all over, yes most certainly. Now we did actually work, but there was some days we had so much fun that I'm thinking I was very blessed to have been employed the next day. I could go on and on about stories that happened there, from pranks we pulled on each other to even the residents playing pranks on us, there was never a dull moment, good or bad. Even if it was equipment malfunctioning there was usually a funny story behind it. All in all you have to weigh the good times with the bad and it always equaled out to be a good time working.

The best prank of all time was there was a packet of ketchup laying beside the meat slicer...I really don't need to finish. I think you all can imagine what I did. Needless to say, my friend Andrea didn't speak to me for weeks...no matter how many times I apologized and to this day, she would still kick my butt for it.

Mainly for a bunch of women, we were ornery. It's amazing how we never drove our bosses crazy.

I think my new boss I have is finally realizing I can be pretty ornery too. I haven't done a whole lot, but at the right moment, look out... I try hard to be an elder for the young workers to look up to, but sometimes those pranks need to happen. Lol

So needless to say, since it is the Halloween season, I'm sure a few will sneak out.

Have a great week and enjoy the nice fall weather we are having.

Sixteen Community Foundations in Northeast Indiana will be the proud sponsors of the flight that will take 85 veterans to Washington, DC to see the memorials built in their honor. Four Korean War veterans, Two Cold War veterans, Seventy-Eight Vietnam War veterans, One Lebanon/Grenada veteran and One Desert Storm veteran will be traveling on Flight #49. Since it was established in 2008, Honor Flight Northeast Indiana has taken 3,905 veterans to Washington, DC.

Doug Inman, Executive Director of The Portland Foundation in Jay County, and Honor Flight Northeast Indiana Volunteer Corps Member stated: "All community foundations, at their core, exist to enhance the quality of life in their respective communities. The quality of life enjoyed in these communities is due in part to servicemen and servicewomen protecting the freedoms we enjoy as Americans. CHAUTAUQUA

The October 4, 2024 meeting of Warren Chautauqua Literary Circle was held at the First Christian Church Fellowship Hall. The meeting was called to order by President Sandy Thompson. She announced the theme for the 2024-25 year is, What is Perfect is Excellent. The Collect was read by the members. The President stated that the members will be called by the calling committee before each monthly meeting.

Member Carol Spangler has requested to be on the inactive roll. Pam Stouffs, the newest member, was welcomed to Chautauqua by the ladies.

Minutes were read from the June 2023 meeting by secretary, Suellen Jones. Corrections were noted and approved, and minutes were accepted. Roll Call was answered by each member present by, My Best Friend. It was noted to remember Millie Whiting, and that Freda VanWinkle's daughter, Tammy, had passed away. Bonnie Meyers noted to remember Ann Miles and Nancy Smyth.

The Treasurer's report was given by Carmen Anderson.

There was no old business.

New business—It was suggested a committee for a membership drive. A discussion followed. It was a consensus that each member is encouraged to invite a friend for prospective membership. They are welcome to attend any monthly meeting and be presented for membership any time during the year.

The program was given by Linda Howell. It was the book entitled: "Cloud Nine" by C. Carey Cloud. Mr. Cloud was a good christian man born in Grant County, Indiana, in about 1900. His Father told him, "through life he needed to hoe his own row". He graduated the 8th grade, and at 16 years old, he went to work on the railroad. He liked art and always carried scratch pads and pencils with him.

As a young man, he worked on a farm, worked on the railroad, worked in oil fields, a shoe factory, a glass factory, a player piano factory, and in a steel mill during WWI. After studying art through a twenty-five dollar correspondence course, he started a career on the art staff of the Cleveland Press. He was nineteen years old. Later he worked in an advertising agency, and was an art director for a calendar company and a greeting card publisher.

He created pop-up books. He is best known for designing Cracker Jack Toys. During the WWII the service men looked forward to the toys in the Cracker Jack. He started designing toys with scraps of metal from the Ball Brothers canning lids and other small scraps he would find.

In 1965, he moved from Chicago to his home in southern Indiana. He purchased 190 A of land in Brown County, Indiana near Nashville, Indiana. He took up painting and became a well known artist.

He passed away in Tucson, Arizona in November 1984, at age 85. C. Carey Cloud will always be remembered as the Cracker Jack artist.

The meeting was adjourned. The hostesses were Sandy Schwarzkopf and Eva Witkamp. Desert and drinks were served to those attending: Carmen Anderson, Nancy Bonham, Sharon Gebhart, Linda Howell, Karen Hunnicutt, Suellen Jones, Judy Lewis, Bonnie Meyers, Sandy Schwarzkopf, Peggy Schweikhardt, Ann Spahr, Sandy Thompson, Kitty Throop, Eva Witkamp, Betty Yoder, Pam Strouffs, and Carolyn Sparks.

VICKSBURG & NATCHEZ TRIP DAY 7

by Larry Ryan

Somehow my wife woke up at 6 am. The bus was scheduled to leave precisely at 7 am. I had intended to set the alarm clock for 5:20, but mistakenly set it for one hour later. Yes, we were on the bus on time. Breakfast was hurried. Luck kept us from having to hitch-hike to Indiana. Whew!

The sun was shining through a partly cloudy sky, so sunglasses were necessary. It was 61 degrees when the bus entered I-40 east towards Nashville, TN. Trees hid much of the roadside landscape, but a herd of Black Angus cattle was spotted in an opening. The bus passed a flatbed truck hauling plastic-wrapped boxes. Recently, there has been talk about boycotting plastic products. I would rather have seen wooden crates on that truck.

At 8:15 the sky changed to blue with pockets of small, white, individual clouds. The bus driver passed car carriers with Ford vehicles, the Golden Arches, and Patty's Restaurant advertisement. Between day-dreaming and periods of short sleeps, I am positive that the Old Dominion semi traveling that interstate highway is the same one we saw six days ago. Clouds started to bunch together and resembled smoke from a volcano eruption.

During the rest stop I talked basketball with a passenger who had been a coach in Jay County. Five minutes later, the bus crossed the Tennessee River that was rushing north towards the Land Between the Lakes in Kentucky. After passing two Fed Ex and one JB Hunt trucks, I started to wonder how the low, metal guard rails alongside the road could stop, trucks and busses with large tires, from jumping that small-sized barricade. I kept my seat belt fastened! We were 64 miles from Nashville when a billboard displayed Toot's Fried Pickles. Also passed was the exit for Bucksport again. There has to be a story about that place.

To prevent our homebound group from starting to riot, the tour director showed the movie, "Places in the Heart." This feature depicted life during the Great Depression in Waxahachie, Texas. Sally Fields, Danny Glover, and others worked in her cotton field to help save the farm. By 10:15 we were northbound on I-65. Bowling Green, KY was the 11:05 lunch stop.

Louisville was 109 miles ahead. The rolling, green landscape in this state included sprouted corn plants and cattle grazing leisurely. The bus driver passed a towed, pontoon boat and a Sun Seeker RV headed towards Indiana's northern lakes. As our vehicle traversed an extended work zone, with those yellow & white barrels marking the pathway, one had been struck and landed 80 feet uphill. That was a gorilla punt!

Before crossing the Ohio River at 2:35, billboards advertising Lucky Derby Casino and the Bourbon and Beyond establishment were prominently displayed. One passenger was released at Seymour near the East Fork of the White River. Hopefully, someone will come and rescue her. As the bus passed the Nickel Plate District at Fishers, that railroad name sparked memories of the train that passed daily through my home town when I was a youth. My wife and I initially thought that the car parked at the drop-off location was our ride home. IT WAS NOT! The real one arrived soon. We could have been kidnapped and missed the next bus trip.

I leave this journey with words about Soldiers on a marker in Vicksburg: "We were that which others did not want to be. We went where others feared to go, and did what others failed to do."

ANYONE CAN BE A VICTIM OF A CYBERCRIME. HERE'S WHAT TO KNOW

(StatePoint) Even the most skilled cybersecurity expert can fall prey to today's incredibly sophisticated phishing attempts.

Phishing can take place in a variety of ways, but recognizing these "lures" is a powerful way to defang cybercriminals:

Phishing: Traditional phishing comes in the form of a fraudulent email that encourages recipients to click on a link and provide personal data. Often the subject lines are designed to entice the receiver with an interesting headline, timely topic or urgent request.

Smishing: An attacker sends a text prompting the recipient to click a link or call a number for more information. If the link is clicked, the user downloads malicious software to their phone.

Vishing: An attacker uses the telephone—or voice—to gain access to sensitive information for financial gain. The criminal usually poses as someone they are not, such as another employee, technical support person or someone representing a government agency.

Quishing: An attacker creates a fake QR code and uses it to direct victims to a malicious website that prompts them to enter their personal or financial information.

Ultimately, the easiest way for a cybercriminal to steal your information is to trick you into sharing it. Their fraudulent communications will often look official and appear to have come from a trusted source. However, there are warning signs to watch out for. Pause and ask yourself the following questions before responding:

Do you know the person who sent you the message? The source of an email or text can easily be forged, making it seem that a request is coming from someone you know. If something seems off or if the sender is asking for money or personal information, contact them through a different channel than the original message to confirm the message came from them.

Does the message create a sense of urgency? Criminals will often try to rush you into making an unwise decision. An example of such a message may read, "confirm your login details in the next 24 hours using the link below or your account will be suspended." Always take the time necessary to think through your response and confirm legitimacy.

Does the offer seem too good to be true? Treat any messages announcing you've won money, a prize or the opportunity to purchase an item at a significant discount as suspicious.

Does the message ask you to click on a link or open an attachment? Be particularly wary of emails from people or organizations you don't know urging you to click on a link or open an attachment. Doing so can lead to malware being installed on your device.

Does the telephone call ask for personal or financial account information? If you receive a call that just doesn't feel right, trust your instincts. Hang up and call the customer service line from their official company website.

Does the message ask you to scan a QR code? As QR codes become more common in daily transactions, utilize these tips when scanning a code:

- First, check to determine that the QR code has not been tampered with, such as a sticker placed on top of the original code.
- Check the URL to make sure the code is sending you to the intended site and that the site looks authentic. Look for typos or misplaced letters.
- Exercise caution when entering information on a site

FELTS

 Jerry Lee Felts, age 92, of Lagro, IN, a faithful follower of Christ, passed on to eternally serve our Savior in Heaven October 4, 2024, at his residence surrounded by loved ones.

Jerry was born May 28, 1932 in Huntington to Alvah Joel and Josephine Mae (Lutz) Felts. Jerry graduated from Huntington High School 1951, and immediately enlisted in service with the United States Air Force where he was then deployed to Tempelhof Air Base, Berlin, Germany.

It was during this time that he met the love of his life, Rosemarie Koschel, as she was searching for a job in post-war Berlin. Not long after meeting, the two were married in November 1953 there in Berlin. When Jerry's service to the US Air Force was complete, the couple returned to the Huntington area and began a family together. Jerry worked a few jobs in the area before landing a rewarding 20+ years employment with International Harvester of Fort Wayne. He would retire from his UAW position at International Harvester in 1984.

Over the years Jerry found great peace, joy, and reward in following and spreading the Gospel of Jesus Christ. He became an ordained minister and served as the pastor of five various churches over the course of twenty years in the Northern Indiana region. In addition to serving as a minister, Jerry established a workplace bible study for interested co-workers at International Harvester and traveled internationally to serve as a missionary to the Philippines and India.

Jerry dearly loved friends and family and could keep a good conversation going for hours. He loved traveling to Canada for an annual fishing trip and mushroom hunting in Michigan; he was always outdoors his whole life. He found great pleasure in keeping a perfectly maintained yard, swimming with grandchildren, a perfectly fried tenderloin sandwich, gardening, and going for fall walks with his beloved pup, Lydia, who he lovingly referred to as "punker".

Pastor Felts is survived by his adoring wife of 70 years, Rosemarie, and his three children: Michael (Fran) Felts, Marcus (Hyonok) Felts, and Cynthia (Joseph) DeMike, along with thirteen grandchildren and eleven great-grandchildren. As well, siblings George (Yvonne) Felts of Arizona, Sandra (Bruce) Snyder of Wyoming, and Jeanne (Robert) Boyce of Maine, survive.

Jerry was preceded in death by his parents and two sisters, Barbara Wright and Shirley Schlemmer-Reese.

Services will be held at St. Paul's County Line Church, 3995 N 1000 W, Andrews, IN, Saturday, October 12. Visitation will be one hour, beginning at 12 Noon, with service to follow at 1 o'clock. Pastor Conrad Thompson will preside.

A private interment will be held at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, memorials can be made to United with Love of Huntington County in care of McElhaney Funeral Home, 715 N. Jefferson Street, Huntington, IN, 46750.

He was retired from Teledyne Portland Forge as a hammer operator.

He was a member of Veterans of Foreign Wars, Fort Recovery, Ohio, Portland Eagles Lodge, American Legion and I.O.O.F.

Surviving are one son, Kent Bickel (wife, Samantha), of Portland; two daughters, Tane

DIABETES AND YOUR FEET, WHAT YOU NEED TO KNOW

(StatePoint) Foot ulcers develop in about 15% of the 25 million Americans living with diabetes and are a top cause of hospitalization. These ulcers can lead to serious complications, such as infection and amputation. According to foot and ankle surgeons, there are steps you can take to prevent complications and keep your feet healthy, as well as breakthrough treatments that are saving limbs, restoring mobility and improving lives.

"The majority of lower-extremity amputations are preceded by a reoccurring foot sore or an ulcer that won't heal," says John S. Steinberg, DPM, FACFAS, a board-certified foot and ankle surgeon and a Fellow Member and Past President of the American College of Foot and Ankle Surgeons (ACFAS). "Patients do best when they take charge of their foot health with the help of a foot and ankle surgeon."

The surgeon members of ACFAS are sharing some important insights into preventing foot ulcers associated with diabetes and treating them if they do occur.

Make these precautions part of your foot care routine:

- Inspect feet daily using a flashlight and mirror to see the bottoms of your feet.

- Moisturize dry, cracking feet to prevent sores. Use powder to control moisture that can result in blisters.

- To prevent injury, wear protective, well-fitting shoes and socks at all times, even in the house. Change socks daily and more often if your feet get wet or sweaty. Avoid socks with holes or seams. Sometimes diabetic shoes are prescribed to avoid pressure and rubbing on the feet.

- Get regular foot exams from a foot and ankle surgeon, which can reduce amputation risk by 45-85%. The surgeon can also screen feet for loss of protective sensation.

- Manage your diabetes. Out-of-control blood sugar levels can lead to nerve cell damage, making it harder to detect foot problems.

Look for telltale signs that an ulcer may be developing:

- Swelling. The foot or ankle may look puffy or engorged and larger than the other.

- Temperature. Cold feet might mean a circulatory issue, whereas hot feet might mean infection.

- Color changes. Redness and even other colors might appear before an ulcer forms.

- Calluses. If a callus changes colors or develops dark, "dried blood" colored spots, it may be time to have a foot and ankle surgeon offer a proper diagnosis.

Ask your foot and ankle surgeon about innovative treatments:

If you do experience a non-healing ulcer, talk to your foot and ankle surgeon right away about innovative technologies that stimulate healing.

Groundbreaking approaches include stem cell therapy, the use of bioengineered skin substitutes to accelerate growth of healthy skin, and negative pressure wound therapy (NPWT) to promote healing and enable healthy, new tissue to grow. Today, foot and ankle surgeons rarely do a skin graft without NPWT. Skin grafting for foot ulcers has also advanced. Surgeons now use advanced reconstructive surgery and grafting techniques to promote wound healing and decrease wound recurrence.

The success rate of these advanced therapies is high, providing substantial improvement over treatments of the not-too-distant past, when doctors would clean and bandage the wound and hope for the best.

"Thanks to the many advances in diabetic foot care, patients today are having simpler surgeries, avoiding amputations, and getting back to everyday life sooner than ever before," says Dr. Steinberg.

HOW YOU CAN HELP ALL KINDS OF PEOPLE WITH A FINANCIAL PLANNING CAREER

(StatePoint) One common misconception about financial planners is that their role is solely to help wealthy people create more wealth. In reality, financial planners help all kinds of people in all kinds of circumstances.

Here are a few ways that CERTIFIED FINANCIAL PLANNER® professionals are there for individuals and families in good times and bad.

Pursuing life goals: As a CFP® professional, you will have the training and knowledge required to help people create a holistic financial plan to reach their goals — such as buying a home, financing an education or planning for retirement — on their own timeline.

During a medical crisis: A medical crisis introduces new, sometimes astronomical bills into the equation while often hindering one's ability to earn income. That's where you can make all the difference as a financial planner. Studies have shown that financial intervention in these circumstances doesn't just help families meet their expenses, it can also improve patient outcomes.

When navigating government benefits: Navigating government benefits can be tricky, whether an individual is living with a disability or transitioning from military to civilian life. From accessing benefits to maintaining one's eligibility for them, as a CFP® professional, you can help cut through the red tape.

After the loss of a loved one: The loss of a partner or parent is not only emotionally devastating, it can create financial strife among those left behind, particularly if the deceased was the primary breadwinner or the one responsible for managing financial logistics. A CFP® professional can provide financial education to the surviving family members, give them a snapshot of their financial situation, assist with managing their assets and help them pave a new path forward.

During unexpected circumstances: Recessions, job loss, natural disasters...the list of unexpected circumstances that can impact a family's financial future goes on and on. CFP® professionals can partner with individuals to create a financial plan that safeguards their wealth and provides peace of mind.

When unable to pay for services: Perhaps one of the most rewarding aspects of a financial planning career is the opportunity to provide pro bono services to clients in need. Credit and budget management, as well as education on topics like loans and life insurance, can provide struggling individuals with economic self-sufficiency. Industry-wide efforts, such as CFP Board's 100K Pro Bono Challenge, which encourages CFP® professionals to collectively provide 100,000 more pro bono hours than last year, are expanding access to ethical, competent financial advice to more Americans. In fact, CFP® professionals donate tens of thousands of pro bono hours each year, and the number of professionals who volunteer in this capacity is on the rise.

To learn more about meaningful financial planning careers and CFP® certification, visit getcfpcertified.org.

While financial planning is not always immediately regarded as a "helping profession," it's one of the few careers where you can make an immediate impact that uplifts individuals and strengthens families and communities.

NEIL ARMSTRONG SPACE MUSEUM & BICYCLE MUSEUM TRIP PART 1

by Larry Ryan

On August 12, 2024, my wife and I left home at 8:20 am on a journey into neighboring Ohio. It was a mystery trip for her. Even though football season was approaching in that raucous, crazy football state, I took a chance with my bright-colored, Indiana license plates. We ventured ahead. Actually our vehicle sneaked in via Poneto, Reiffsburg, and Berne, Indiana. Hardly unseen! We drove by several Amish farms with horses grazing and clothes drying outside in the sun.

Upon locating US Highway #33 in Ohio, we passed the huge, MVP Dairy business between Mercer and Neptune. The McCarty and Vantilburg families started this operation in 2019. Their sign advertised, "Come See Our Cows." Apparently the cattle need attention! On down the road my wife spotted two white swans on a pond before I-75 Interstate, at Wapakoneta, motioned for our red car to turn north. Naturally the Neil Armstrong Space Museum exit sign was seen in our review mirror. Turned around at the next interchange and arrived in the museum's parking lot just as the doors were being opened for visitors at 10am. This address interestingly enough is 500 Apollo Drive.

Why is the museum located in Wapakoneta? Neil Armstrong was born on August 5, 1930 in this community. Due to his father's job, he lived in several different places in the state. Ohio is also the home state of several other astronauts; John Glenn was another. Their desire to fly away is evident. Neil received his pilot's license at the age of 16. He enrolled at Purdue University on a Navy Scholarship in 1947 and received his Bachelor of Science Degree in Aeronautical Engineering from that institution in 1955. However, his schooling was interrupted prior to receiving the diploma. War intervened. He became a naval aviator during 1949-1952 and served in the Korean War where he flew 78 combat missions.

Neil made test flights in 1955 at the Lewis Flight Propulsion Laboratory in Cleveland. In 1957, he was a National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics (NACA) research pilot and made three test flights in the X-1B. It was a rocket-powered experimental airplane that was designed to evaluate flight problems during supersonic activity. One of which researched aerodynamic heating and directional control.

Neil joined NASA (descendant of NACA) in 1962. He flew on the Gemini 8 mission prior to the moon-landing voyage of Apollo 11 in 1969. This latter launch occurred on July 16 and included Command Module Pilot Michael Collins and Lunar Module Pilot Edwin "Buzz" Aldrin. Armstrong piloted the Lunar Module across an undesirable area to the so called, Sea of Tranquility landing zone on July 20. He only had 45 seconds of fuel remaining to make that happen.

In the museum's theater, a continuous video relives the events of that space mission. Of course this included Armstrong's famous phrase, "That's one small step for man; one giant leap for mankind." Aldrin also walked on the lunar surface. Some reports say that he wanted to be the first to exit the module. The three-man crew splashed down in the Pacific Ocean on July 24th.

There was a piece of fabric and wood fragments of the Wright Brother's 1903 airplane that Armstrong took to the moon. It was a symbolic link of the 1st air flight to the 1st landing in another world. Many interesting exhibits filled the museum including a moon rock, the Gemini VIII space capsule, Apollo 11 artifacts, and three planes flown by Armstrong. One of these was the Learjet in which he set a world record.

The realistic replica of the original space suits was a full-scale, 3-D model made of fiberglass and silicon. The astronauts suits had to be heat, radiation, and small meteorite-resistant. I learned that it requires 17,500 mph to maintain an object in orbit. A table exhibit demonstrated this phenomenon, on a smaller scale of course! Any less momentum and the earth's gravity will pull it down to earth. The Apollo 11 spacecraft required a speed of 25,000 mph to reach the moon.

Outside the museum were three exhibits. One was a full-scale mockup of the Gemini reentry module. I found myself seated in it. Luckily the hatch did not close. Next to it was the Apollo Command Module. Nearby was a small monument inscribed with the names of astronauts who did not survive their space travel. One of those was a Mitchell, Indiana native, Virgil "Gus" Grissom.

Two statues of Armstrong were outside. I stood beside the upright Neil for a photo. I looked like a dwarf. My wife chose to be seated beside him on a bench.
