You, the community, support us tremendously each year. Many have been very faithful for many years. Our goal is to add 5-10 new buyers this year. Please pass the word and encourage/challenge friends to place a bid at the sale. Prices last year ranged from $120 to $410.

KUDOS, KICKS & KARATS

To the Pulse Opera House Supporters,

On behalf of the board of directors and the volunteers of the Pulse Opera House, I would like to thank all of our supporters who are helping us get through this difficult time. Following the cancellation of the summer production of "Fiddler on the Roof" due to a national touring company coming to the area in January, volunteers quickly put together a Talent Show and Silent Auction. As a result of their efforts, over $3,000 was raised in one weekend! We appreciate everyone who performed, donated art items to the auction, attended the performances, bid on items and sent in donations. It helped lessen the financial sting.

Look for the Pulse volunteers at the Pioneer Festival. Under the direction of Audrey Dean, the players are setting up a photography booth to do old-time photographs. We will also be doing a bake sale at Heritage Pointe at the end of the month.

The set for "Fiddler on the Roof" was dismantled and is being stored. We will perform the show in the 2011 season.

Meanwhile, rehearsals are in progress for "Blithe Spirit" which opens September 17.

Thanks to all who have stuck with us the past 24 years. You are the "Pulse" of the Opera House!

Sincerely,
 Cynthia Smyth-Wartzok

The 2010 Popcorn Festival

In 1980 I was asked by Dorothy Taylor, who ran Benson's drug store, if I would be the treasurer of the Popcorn Festival. There is not much to it she said. Being one who can't say no I said "YES".

From then on I have helped with the festival almost every year. I have been the treasurer, secretary, advertising agent, event planner, brochure developer, and anything else that needed done. During these years there have been many changes. We formed a not for profit organization, we purchased the building next to the railroad tracks (the antique booths were in there), and we have tried some activities that did not work out. But all in all we have always had a great festival. Over the past thirty years, I remember working with the following people: Bob Fincannon, Oca Howard, Bob Hemmick, Ted Holloway, Don Bosley, the Fergusons', the Carls', the Van Buren Lions' Club members, Jerry Palmer parachuting in to the stage just before the parade started, the Baker's, the Doyle's, the Lee's, the Brankle's and the Zents. There are many more but their names I don't remember but everyone has always pitched in and somehow the festival goes on.

Anyways, it takes a lot of people to organize this festival and lots of times the thanks that are necessary are not given. My family, husband Jerry, daughters Stacy Clupper and Katie Beck and son Adam Beck have always helped with some activity at the festival. For the last 25 years we have organized the children's' pedal tractor pull. Most times we have over 50 children show up to

DEAN'S LIST

Former Huntington Eagle Basketball All-Star, Andrew Daniels, finished his second year at Oklahoma Wesleyan University in Bartlesville, OK. He is on the OWU Eagles Basketball team, which won the NAIA Division II National Championship in March 2009 and finished in the Final Four in March 2010, after faltering to the eventual National Champions, the University of Saint Francis Cougars from Fort Wayne.

Andrew was awarded placement on the Dean's List for the Spring Semester 2010 and for the Fall Semester 2009. The Dean's List at OWU is for students who achieve a 3.5 - 3.99 scholastic average. He was also included on the Midlands Collegiate Athletic Conference 2009-10 Scholar-Athlete list. On March 10, 2010 at the NAIA-D2 National Basketball Tournament in Branson, MO, Andrew was awarded the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletes Champions of Character Award for his Basketball Team. This award is for demonstrating the quality character traits of Respect, Responsibility, Integrity, Servant Leadership and Sportsmanship.

In April 2009, he was one of 14 athletes selected, for the American Red Cross/National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics Collegiate Leadership Program, class of 2009-10. As a result, he is one of seven student-athletes featured on the NAIA webpage, which was posted at the end of July 2009.

He coordinated his first Blood Drive for the Oklahoma Wesleyan University campus on Friday 9/25/09, and was blessed when the goal for this Drive was exceeded by 20%. The next week he became the talk of the office at the American Red Cross National Headquarters in Washington, D.C. He was selected as Athlete of the Month for October 2009 and was pictured on the Athletic page of the OWU website.

Mr Arnold Price of Findlay OH and Dr Thom McDonald of Leipsic OH visited in the home of Mr and Mrs George Brown.

SUPREME SHOWMAN

Alex Jackson, son of Neil and Lora Jackson, was named Supreme Dairy Showman at the 2010 Indiana State Fair. In order to achieve this honor, he first won the Holstein Dairy Showman award, then shooed the heifer against five other breed winners. During a fifteen minute break they were allowed to eat, change clothes and gather all the equipment needed to completely groom another heifer for show. The six judges made their selection at four p.m.

Alex will be a senior at Clinton Prairie High School near Frankfort. He and his three sisters are members of the Pork Chop Club and show in the Huntington County 4-H Fair.

Proud grandparents are Marvin and Jean Engleking and Wendell and Marcia Jackson.

FUNDS FOR TREES

The Indiana Department of Natural Resources, Division of Forestry has $121,831 in grant funds available to municipalities and non-profits for public tree inventories and tree planting projects. The funds are part of the 2010 Put the Trees Back program.

"In a statewide sample tree inventory, we discovered that there are over 850,000 vacant tree planting sites throughout the state," said John Seifert, State Forester. "It is important that we help communities fill these sites to enhance their environmental and economic health."

Cities, towns, and non-profits can request funds ranging from $2,500 to $20,000. Projects must show an equal match, which can be a mix of cash and in-kind services. All projects must be in an urban area or in an area being impacted by sprawl, and all trees must be planted on public property.

The urban forestry dollars for this grant are part of a 2010 grant awarded to the Community and Urban Forestry (CUF) program by the USDA Forest Service, Northeastern Area. The deadline for application is Nov. 15. Awards will be announced later that month for project startup in spring 2011.

For more information, contact Pam Louks, CUF Coordinator at (317) 591-1170, plouks@dnr.IN.gov.

ROUSH LAKE CHANGE

J. Edward Roush Lake will switch from being managed by the DNR Division of State Parks and Reservoirs to being managed by the DNR Division of Fish and Wildlife and will become a Fish and Wildlife Area, possibly as early as Nov. 1.

"Roush Lake is already a great place for hunters and anglers and this will make it even better," said Mark Reiter, director of the Division of Fish and Wildlife. "Its size similarities (8,217 acres, including 870 acres of water) with the other Fish and Wildlife Areas and its shooting range make it a natural for outdoor sportsmen and sportswomen."

The change, once in place, gives northeast Indiana its third Fish and Wildlife Area. The others are Tri-County and Pigeon River. The change also, once in place, means gate admission will no longer be charged and the purchase of lake permits will no longer be required to boat.

With the transfer, some previous recreational offerings will no longer be available at Roush.

"We know that many local residents use Roush Lake for a variety of recreational activities," said Dan Bortner, director of State Parks and Reservoirs. "Many of those activities will still be available. For activities that are not compatible with federal funding, we are lucky to have convenient locations at Salamonie Lake and Ouabache State Park, both within a 30-minute drive."

The DNR Division of State Parks and Reservoirs will look at relocating some of the affected recreational facilities to the other two Upper Wabash reservoirs, Salamonie and Mississinewa.

Those two properties, along with Roush, are leased by the DNR from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers. At such properties, the DNR manages the recreational facilities and wildlife areas. The Corps manages the dams and recreational facilities immediately around the dams, and monitors and regulates lake levels. The Corps will continue to do so at Roush.

The cost savings will occur from a shift in staffing and other operating costs, and as a result of federal grant dollars available to the Division of Fish and Wildlife through the Sport Fish and Wildlife Restoration Program. This longstanding legislation assesses taxes on the sale of sporting arms, ammunition, archery equipment and fishing equipment that is returned to the states for use in restoration and management of fish and wildlife, and habitat.

In an effort to be consistent with other Fish and Wildlife Areas and to maximize federal funds, admission to the property will not be charged and activities will be limited primarily to those that focus on fish and wildlife management, as defined by the grants. After the transfer, approximately half of the Roush operation will be funded by the dedicated Division of Fish and Wildlife fund that comes from fishing, hunting and trapping license sales. The other half will come from the federal funds.

The DNR chose Roush Lake for this transfer because of the many similarities between it and the current Fish and Wildlife Areas it manages, including size, usage by hunters and anglers, wildlife management practices, the presence of a shooting range and the put-and-take pheasant hunt that occurs on the property annually.

Full-time staffing at the property will be reduced from seven to five. The DNR will offer full-time positions to displaced full-time workers. Roush's current staff of 20 intermittent workers will be reduced to eight.

The main campground in Roush's Kilsoquah State Recreation Area will remain open. The beach in Little Turtle State Recreation Area will close. Some picnic shelters will be removed.

The model airport will close. DNR staff will work with users to evaluate the potential for a site at another nearby state property. The mountain bike trail will close and mountain biking will no longer be permitted. The Salamonie mountain bike trail will remain a local option. The changes are an effort to maximize cost savings and maximize Sport Fish and Wildlife Restoration funding.

The site name will be J. Edward

Roush Fish and Wildlife Area. Once this change becomes effective, there will be 23 DNR-managed Fish and Wildlife Areas in the state and eight lakes managed by the Division of State Parks and Reservoirs. For a listing, see dnr.IN.gov. For a list of frequently asked questions and answers about the transition, see <http://www.in.gov/dnr/parklake/2956.htm>

WHAT CHANGES ABOUT WAR IF ANYTHING?

by V Neil Wyrick
I name no particular President, in this writing, as being a paragon of wisdom even though it is about one of our Presidents, Abraham Lincoln. For now this nation is over 200 years and countless Presidents have been War Presidents and in the process sought to explain and understood whatever conflict was at their moment taking place.

It goes without saying that questions come easier than answers and that peace comes slower than most war's beginnings.

Like all wars, when the Civil War began incredibly, few had envisioned all the maimed and wounded on both sides of the Mason-Dixon Line. Bullets would now proliferate because ballots had failed, until finally one day, like all wars, it would come to a final bitter end.

In Washington there was nothing Lincoln could do when things in the field got out of hand. He was their Commander-in-Chief, but he could not be everywhere. He could speak with an unrelenting concern, but his words could not control every soldier dressed in blue. He watched and prayed that the weariness of war, if not wisdom, would make it all soon come to an end. And when that finally happened, that good men in both North and South would outnumber the bad.

"Lincoln believed that "We should be too big to take offense and too noble to give it." And, "I have been driven many times to my knees by the overwhelming conviction that I had nowhere else to go. My own wisdom, and that of all about me, seemed insufficient for the day."

And so it is with all these men elected to this high and conflicted office; they bring to it, because they are human, their prejudices and insights forged from their childhood way of living.

They grow old and weary at their task and the patience of the people who elected them grows thin and fades away. And no one seems to learn or apply the old lesson that those who do not learn from the past are condemned to repeat it.

AMERICANS LOVE

ROMANCE!

(StatePoint) Call Americans old softies, but romance is booming nationwide.

Date night is back. Film attendance climbed 16 percent last year, the biggest rise in 20 years according to Media by Numbers.

Sales of romance novels are up. Nielsen BookScan reports increased adult fiction sales, with many romance publishers enjoying boosts.

"Romantic novels and movies inspire us to infuse our relationships with romance," says relationship expert and romance novelist, Gayle Rogers, who has seen increased sales of her 1972 million-copy classic, "Nakoa's Woman," which follows two star-crossed lovers in the Old West, and its sequels, "Gladycy with a C," and "For Love's Sake Only," in which the lovers meet in other eras.

THE UPTOWN

GARDENER

by Ruth Herring

I am sure most all of us are ready for some relief from the hot stifling weather. Remember when last winter we were wishing for summer and the cold miserable winter to be over? Guess we Hoosiers can never be happy with the weather.

My garden is done for the summer except for one nice tomato plant to keep us supplied so long as it produces. I have been ready to give it up for the season. This year, as many others told me, the gardens were total disaster, with rains and flooded gardens and the hot humid weather that grew weeds faster than the garden plants. Let's hope next year we all have better luck.

Next project is to get flower beds back in shape and some other yard work. Outside has looked pretty sad around the Herring house this year, but some renovations are coming. I think how much easier it is for Wayne to get the mowing done with the rider. Sure would have liked to have that luxury years back when at home we had a good acre to mow that was the yard and barnyard. We didn't have the luxury of even a power mower, just an old steel wheeled push mower and I mean you had to really push it. We always thought surely there was some way we could have hitched our Queenie dog up to help pull it. Somehow we always managed to get it all mowed before it was time to start all over again. It was my job to pick up sticks and other rubbish ahead of my sister who pushed the mower. I lucked out on the easy job only because I was too short to reach the handle and push the mower. She threatened me to either start growing or she was going to make me some stilts or elevated shoes so I could reach. She even thought of sawing the handle off short and nailing a cross bar on so I could reach it, but she knew better to keep from being in trouble with dad.

Strange that after all those years after we were no longer at home dad bought a power mower for my brother to mow with. How lucky!!!

This past week we were on a bus trip and made a stop at great bakery/eatery near Shipshewana and sampled some of the mouth watering baked items. Believe me there was many to which you could sample. They even greeted you at the door with those great melt in your mouth donut balls.

Someone asked if I had the recipe for the chocolate crinkle cookies which they had there. Here is the one that Kendra had given me along with some samples she made which we enjoyed.

Chocolate Crinkle Cookies
1/2 cup oil, 4 squares unsweetened chocolate melted, 2 cups sugar, 4 eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla 1/2 teaspoon salt, 2 cups flour, 2 teaspoon baking powder, 1 cup powdered sugar.

Mix oil, melted chocolate, sugar, blend in 1 egg at a time until well mixed. Add vanilla, stir in salt, flour and baking powder.

Chill dough several hours or overnight. Heat oven to 350, using a teaspoon take a spoonful and put it in the powdered sugar and roll and shape into a ball. Place 2 inches apart on greased or sprayed baking sheet, bake 10-12 minutes. Makes about 40.

Keep the samples coming Kendra, Grandpa is a good judge of cookies.

Everyone have a great week.
