WHEN IS IT TIME FOR A NEW JOB?

from the American Counseling Association
 Whether you're a highly-paid executive or have a lower-level position, you still are head to your job each day and try to do your best. But is that job doing its best for you?

While most of us need that regular paycheck in order to survive, it shouldn't mean being miserable in order to earn a living. If your job isn't making you happy, it's time to ask some serious questions and to consider the possibility of a job, or even a career change.

The process starts with simply looking at how your current position is affecting you. Do you feel bored, unchallenged and unmotivated in the work you're currently doing? If so, they're clear signs that it might be worth considering an employment move.

There are other questions to ask yourself. Do you dread heading off to work most days? Are Sunday evenings depressing because you know you have to be back at work in the morning? Has the job simply become uninteresting and isn't really making much use of your abilities and experience?

When you find yourself answering yes to questions like these it's a good time to consider a change. When someone continues in a position where they're bored and unhappy, it affects a lot more of their life than simply those hours at work. Personal mental and physical health can suffer, family life can be affected, and relationship issues with a spouse are not uncommon.

If you do believe it's time for a major employment change, there's a lot of help available. Start with a visit to your local library or bookstore and browse through the many books about making career changes that are available. A search online will also produce a variety of articles about the right and wrong ways of making a career change.

It can also be helpful to consider working with a professional counselor specializing in career and employment guidance.

LET'S CAMP AMERICA!

Learn to pitch a tent, build a fire, cook outdoors and more during Let's Camp America! Weekend at Indiana State Parks, May 4-6.

Let's Camp America! Weekend is a nationwide initiative of the National Association of State Parks Directors.

The weekend is a chance for beginners to learn basic camping skills, and for experienced campers to get their equipment out for a spring weekend. Activities will take place at all 32 Indiana State Parks properties and on social media. The weekend celebrates all forms of camping, including tents, trailers, recreational vehicles and camper cabins. This year it also includes some family cabin options.

The weekend concludes with free admission for everyone — campers and day-users alike — on Sunday, May 6, in honor of Visit Indiana Week, sponsored by the Indiana Office of Tourism Development. DNR's State Forest Recreation Areas and ORV sites at Redbird and Interlake will also offer free admission on May 6.

The 32 properties owned and managed by Indiana State Parks offer a combined 7,700 campsites and more than 150 cabins, and nearly 700 miles of hiking, biking and horseback riding trails.

Each state park and state reservoir property will offer the usual educational talks and hikes with interpreters, along with a special camping or outdoor skills program sometime during the weekend. Programs are listed at calendar.dnr.IN.gov, and also will be posted later at stateparks.IN.gov/3282.htm. Topics vary from s'more-making to fire building.

"We really want to celebrate the joy of camping with family and friends, whether you're a seasoned veteran or new to the activity," said Ginger Murphy, Indiana State Parks deputy director. "We have lots of folks who camp after Labor Day in the fall, but not as many who camp in the spring. The bugs aren't bad, and the fishing and wildflower watching are both good. We encourage Hoosiers to start a new spring camping tradition."

"Camping 101" programs at select properties offer 12 families who have never camped at a state park the opportunity to do so for free that Friday and Saturday. Participants will also receive free guidance with campsite set up as needed, and the use of essential gear for up to four people, including sleeping bags, pillows, a cooler, camp chairs, lantern and firewood, plus free gate admission for the weekend and a free one-day pass for future use.

"Camping 101" tent-camping programs will be at Whitewater Memorial, Summit Lake, Potato Creek and Versailles state parks. Space is limited to three families at each of the four parks, and advance reservations are required.

If sleeping in a tent isn't for you, Mississinewa Lake and Shakamak State Park will host "Camping 101" programs with their camper cabins. These cabins are basically "four-walled camping" structures with simple bunks, a table and an outdoor fire ring. Three cabins at each property are being held for first-time campers. Participating families at Mississinewa and Shakamak will also receive use of the camping gear listed above, along with free gate admission for the weekend and a free one-day pass for future use.

In addition, two family cabins at Lincoln, Chain O'Lakes and Harmonie state parks are available for first-time cabin users at half price. Family cabins provide a living/dining area, kitchen with some pots and pans, room to sleep up to six in beds/sleeper sofas, and indoor restrooms and showers. Bedding and any personal items must be provided by cabin users. For more complete information on cabins, visit camp.IN.gov.

For all "Camping 101" programs, participants must bring their own food, and submit an equipment deposit of $25 for tent camping and $30 for camper cabins. The deposit will be returned after the campsite or camper cabins are used and gear is left in good condition.

To reserve a "Camping 101" site for either tent-camping, camper-cabin, or family cabin use, contact Christie Sorrels at csorrels@dnr.IN.gov. Sites will be provided on a first-come, first-served basis, and will include a check of our camping and cabin reservation system to make sure those who seek a reservation haven't camped or stayed in a cabin with us before.

The weekend also includes these social media elements and giveaways on the Indiana State Parks Facebook page at facebook.com/INdnrstateparksandreservoirs for all campers to enjoy:

- Share a photo of your favorite camping gadget on the page using the hashtag #myfavcampgadget2018. You can do this whether or not you are camping during the weekend. Selected favorites will win a 2018 annual pass or camping gift card.

- Post your campsite photo, camping selfie or scenic spring image from the weekend. Use the hashtag #LetsCampAmericaFunPix. Selected favorites will receive a 2018 annual pass or a camping gift card.

- Participate in the ongoing Indiana State Parks Spring Photo Contest with scenic park photos, selfies of your park activities or spring wildflower pictures and post them with the hashtag #INStateParksSpringPix. The contest ends on May 12.

Any campers during this weekend can complete the Let's Camp America State Parks Scavenger Hunt posted at stateparks.IN.gov/3282.htm and return it as indicated on the form to be entered in a drawing for a 2018 annual pass or camping gift card. (There's even a rainy day version if the weekend is wet and you need to stay in the tent or camper.) There are also lots of great ideas for outdoor activities in the Children's Outdoor Bill of Rights at childrenplayoutdoors.IN.gov.

In addition, if you make and keep a regular camping reservation on your own for the weekend, you'll be entered in a drawing for one of two $50 camping gift cards to be presented for future use, or for an outdoor prize package donated by REI, an outdoor retail partner of Indiana State Parks.

"Anytime you camp at an Indiana State Park or one of our big lakes, you are surrounded by acres of open space for hiking, fishing, playing, relaxing and making great memories," said Dan Bortner, Indiana State Parks director. "So 'Let's Camp, Hoosiers!'"

PLEASE SHARE THE ROAD

With temperatures on the rise, more farmers will be out in their fields, which means slow-moving farm equipment will soon be on Indiana roadways. To keep motorists and farmers safe this planting season, several state agencies have partnered together to encourage Hoosiers to be alert, slow down and share the road with farm equipment.

"As a top agricultural state, whether you live in rural, urban or suburban Indiana, a majority of motorists will come across large farm equipment on the road this planting season," said Lt. Governor Suzanne Crouch. "We want to encourage every Hoosier to be mindful, slow down and share the road, which will not only ensure their safety, but also the safety of our farmers."

According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration, farm equipment vehicles (other than trucks) were involved in 92 fatal crashes across the nation, with six of those occurring in Indiana.

By law, farm equipment must have the nationally designated slow-moving vehicle sign – a red triangle-shaped reflector – to warn drivers that their equipment is on the road. These vehicles often travel at speeds no higher than 25 mph.

"Roadway safety is a priority of the Indiana State Police, especially when large farm machinery will be crossing state and county roads to farm fields during the planting season," said Indiana State Police (ISP) Superintendent Doug Carter. "Patience, courtesy and understanding, along with the undivided attention of farmers and the traveling public will help ensure a safe 2018 growing season."

The following list includes several safety tips for motorists approaching large farm equipment:

- Most farmers will pull over when they are able to let you pass, but it may take time for them to get to a safe place to do so. Be patient.
- Farm equipment is wide, sometimes taking up most of the roadway. Be careful when passing.
- Do not pass if you are in a designated "No Passing Zone" or within 100 feet of any intersection, railroad grade crossing, bridge, elevation structure, or tunnel.

- Do not try to pass a slow-moving vehicle on the left without ensuring that the vehicle is not planning a left turn. It may appear that the driver is pulling over for you to pass when it is actually preparing to turn. You will drive right into its path, endangering yourself and the farmer.

- Avoid tailgating, as some farm equipment might have to make sudden stops along the road.

- Allow plenty of time to get to your destination, be aware of alternate routes and avoid distractions.

"Due to the size of our equipment, people will often see us before we see them," said Zach Cain, a Montgomery County farmer. "It's important to be patient. Farmers don't want to hold up traffic, but it can take us some time to find a safe spot to pull over."

Bruce Kettler, Indiana State Department of Agriculture (ISDA) Director, said that motorists should pay special attention to stationary farm equipment on the side of the road, as there might be farmers working nearby.

"We want to remind Hoosiers to take extra precaution on the roadways this spring," Kettler said. "Leaving a few minutes early will ensure that everyone reaches their destination safely and in a timely manner."

In addition to Lt. Gov. Crouch, ISP and ISDA, the following agencies are also participating in the 2018 planting season driver safety campaign:

- Indiana Department of Homeland Security,
  - Indiana Department of Transportation and the Indiana Bureau of Motor Vehicles.

What to Do When Someone is Unkind to You ONE THING

Have you learned the valuable lesson that when you get treated poorly, it never has anything to do with you? It's not a real easy lesson because it's so easy to take unkindness personally, especially when it's directed right at you. Those who have this lesson learned are happier than those who don't. They are able to let unkindness roll off like they'd be if they'd been through the "wax" part in a car wash. Just think about the times you've gotten mad at your kid or your husband and you did it in a mean way. Do you feel bad after that? None of us wants to be mean spirited but sometimes it comes out that way because we're off. Our natural state is wellbeing but when we don't take care of ourselves and get enough sleep, food, water, fresh air and exercise, we can work out on our natural state of goodness.

I was at the grocery store the other day and the clerk who checked me out is a petite woman whom I've always enjoyed communicating with when I check-out at her register. Her name is Julie and she's very efficient and fast. She's also extremely patient with people and I've never seen her be mean to a customer.

One time I couldn't find my debit card to pay and just when I started to say, "I'll get out of line so you can take care of the next customer," she said, "It's okay, no rush." Just those kind words caused me to slow down and there was the card I needed.

But this day, as I put my groceries on the conveyor belt, she said, "I don't know why I'm so emotional today." I looked in her eyes and she looked so sad. I said, "What's up Little Girl?"

"Oh, I don't know, I guess it's 'cause I'm not being treated very well."

"What? Who is not treating you well?"

"Some of the staff here."

"Well, whoever is mistreating you, it has nothing to do with you."

"That's what my mom said!"

"Your mom is right!"

"Really? You think it has nothing to do with me?"

"Yep! It has everything to do with the other person."

Because I don't know the specifics I can guess. This woman has been working for the store for ten years and she's very good at what she does. She's also petite and attractive. My guess is there is some jealousy going on here. I decided to write a note to the manager and tell him how much I like this person and how she's so efficient, fast and friendly.

What if we wrote some note like that daily, complimenting someone who we appreciate? Just think what that could do for hardworking people we know. Remember what Socrates said, or maybe it was Donny Osmond, "Be kind to everyone you meet, they're having a hard time." When I tie up this article, I'm going to write another note like the one I wrote about Julie. It's going to go to Rachel a waitress we've enjoyed at one of our favorite restaurants, oh and then I'm going to write one to my neighbor who just had her house painted and it is absolutely gorgeous! Oh, and then I'm going to write one to Alex who always waits on me at our bank and is always fun and happy.

If you ever get mistreated, instead of spending a single moment feeling bad, write a note of appreciation for someone who comes to your mind. There are so many people in your life, (including you) who deserve being treated with kindness and appreciation.

So if you ever get into a situation where someone is unkind to you, don't take it personally and practice being kind and you'll attract more of the same. What anyone thinks of you is none of your business.
