THE UPTOWN GARDENER by Ruth Herring

In case you missed me last week the email didn't go thru which I found out to late, but there was a couple good articles to take my place.

I now have the garden all put away for the season and I'm not going to miss it for a while. (Only till the seed catalogs come)

This week I planted a new lilac which is suppose to be yellow and rebloom, so will be anxious to see what it does.

All the geraniums I want to keep are snug in the greenhouse and some of the begonias are blooming like crazy, I hope they don't wear themselves out before spring. I brought in the Christmas cactus that blooms for Halloween. I keep it outside in the summer under a shade tree and usually is in bud when I bring it in mid October. It is a rather strange plant with a mind of its own. I brought a tiny start home many years ago from my brothers in Texas and was a beautiful red color. Not so in Indiana it is white with a pink center but beautiful in its own way. So now I call it my ghost cactus.

Now that I am in the house more I'm finally getting some cleaning done. I like to have my house clean before I have to keep it closed up for the fall and winter. Seems to be a bigger chore each passing year, but thanks to my great daughters they have been wonderful to get much of it done. You might call it pay back time for all the years I picked up and cleaned up after them especially one of them. Thanks girls I love you and for your help.

In the kitchen I have been making pumpkin butter. I like it on toast, for me it is very moorish, that means you can eat to much. I cook the pumpkin down in the oven and scoop out the pulp and cook it on the stove on low heat then puree it in the blender adding either pumpkin spice or a mix of cinnamon, cloves ,ginger and allspice adding and sampling till I have the right flavor.

My mom always made it and was a treat we looked forward to and also it was fun looking for the pumpkins that dad had planted deep into the corn field. That was as much fun as looking for Easter eggs. She also cooked down some to put away in jars for pumpkin pies thru the holidays.

We could always count on my uncles and cousin from Marion to come up on the weekends to go hunting with my dad and also knew mom would have plenty of good food and pies on hand. All of us kids looked forward to them coming as they were the ones who took the place of the big brothers we didn't have, but most of all the excitement was our faithful Queenie dog. She knew it was time to go rabbit hunting. She knew they were coming when they

CHANGE YOUR CLOCK

As the time change approaches on Sunday, November 1, the Warren Volunteer Fire Department wants to remind residents to make another change that could save their lives—changing the batteries in their smoke alarms and carbon monoxide detectors.

Communities nationwide witness tragic home fire deaths each year. Approximately every 3 hours a home fire death occurs somewhere in the nation and 80 percent of those occur in homes without working smoke alarms. Non-working smoke alarms rob residents of the protective benefits home fire safety devices were designed to provide. The most commonly cited cause of non-working smoke alarms: worn or missing batteries.

Changing smoke alarm batteries at least once a year is one of the simplest, most effective ways to reduce these tragic deaths and injuries. In fact, working smoke alarms nearly cut in half the risk of dying in a home fire. Additionally, the International Association of Fire Chiefs recommends replacing your smoke alarms every ten years.

For the 22nd year Energizer and the International Association of Fire Chiefs is sponsoring the Change Your Clock Change Your Batteries.

FALL'S HERE, BEWARE OF

DEER

As daylight diminishes, a driver's chance of hitting a deer increases, so all motorists need to adjust their habits and level of awareness accordingly.

Nearly 50 percent of all accidents involving white-tailed deer occur between October and December, according to Chad Stewart, deer research biologist at the DNR. Drivers don't suddenly become less competent during this time, but rather deer become more active because their breeding season is approaching. More activity means deer are more likely to be on the roads—or ready to dart into them when you least expect it.

This increase in activity increases the likelihood of a collision with a vehicle. Factors such as deer density, vehicle density, surrounding habitat, speed limits, and time of day are other contributors to the frequency of such accidents.

"With the number of deer and the number of vehicles out there, deer-vehicle accidents will happen," Stewart said. "The best we can do is to take measures to keep them to a minimum."

The best method to reduce your risk of hitting a deer—or having a deer hit you—is to practice defensive driving. Knowing the following information will help reduce your chances of becoming a deer-vehicle collision statistic:

- Fall is most common season to strike a deer.
- Deer are most active between sunset and sunrise.
- Deer often travel in groups, so if you see one, another is likely nearby.
- Drive especially carefully in areas where you have seen deer before.

- Use high beams when there is no opposing traffic; scan for deer's illuminated eyes or dark silhouettes along the side of the road.

- If you see a deer, slow your speed drastically, even if it is far away.

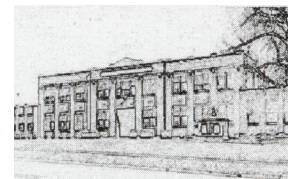

- Exercise extreme caution along woodlot edges, at hills, or blind turns.

- Never swerve to avoid a deer; most serious crashes occur when drivers try to miss a deer but hit something else.

- Drivers should pay attention to traffic signs warning of deer crossings they may be tempted to ignore, and may want to steer clear of gimmicks.

"Deer crossing signs have proven effective, but motorists tend to get acclimated to such signs, and their efficiency can be reduced over time," Stewart said. "Fancy whistles or reflectors can be placed on your

GENEALOGY REPORT

MY TOWN and Yours BY DENNIS STROUD

A lifelong resident of Warren died a few weeks ago and that would be Barbara [Ditzler] Breedlove. We had become pretty good friends over the years.

It all started back in the 90s when Southern Wells moved out of the Civic Center and back to their new school. I had decided to start working on a museum in the Civic Center. Once I got started, I ended up with three volunteers that wanted to help. Mary Emma Holmes, Millie Border and Barbara Breedlove said they could help. All three ladies lived in Warren all their lives and had, in the past, families and relatives owning businesses at one time or another. They seemed to know everybody and everything.

I guess the reason Barbara and I got along so well was our birthday was the same day. There would be times when a picture came in and she would say she could remember it and asked me if I could. I would say I wasn't that old and she would smile and say we were born on the same day.

Sometimes when we were working in the museum, Barbara would come up missing and we would find her watching the old silent movies. She did like those movies. When we opened the museum, for the Warren Alumni, Barbara would seem to know everybody that came in and could name their brothers and sisters. Sometimes she would tell me who might be in a picture and then later call me and say she was wrong. She then would tell me who it was, all about them and anything else I would want to know. I never knew her to say an unkind word about anybody.

It is a sad time for us at the Museum and we will miss Barbara very much. She will live in our hearts forever. Barbara [Ditzler] Breedlove, one of Warren's outstanding citizens.

Starting November 7 the Museum will be open every Saturday afternoon 1:30 p.m. to 4:30 p.m.. If you hadn't been in the Museum I think you will be surprised. If it has been awhile we have made several changes and added a lot more items.

car to scare deer away, but truth be told, they will only keep you from hitting hobgoblins."

Stewart said that even when practicing safe driving, sometimes hitting a deer is inevitable. Caution is also the best approach after the fact.

"If you hit a deer, remain calm," he said. "Do not approach the deer unless you are sure it has expired. Despite their gentle nature, their hooves are sharp and powerful, and can be extremely dangerous."

Stewart said that, like cars and people, deer can be found anywhere, so drivers should be on the lookout, even in metropolitan areas or densely populated suburbs.

"Whether you're driving through the Hoosier National Forest, your developed neighborhood, or within the limits of our major cities, keep your eye out," he said. "Though a deer-vehicle accident can occur at any time of the day during any season, your chances of striking a deer are greatest at low light conditions between October and December. "Take additional caution during these times, lower your speed, and be alert."

ALZHEIMER'S AWARENESS

"In November 1982, President Ronald Reagan signed a proclamation designating the first National Alzheimer's Awareness Week. That historic event marked the beginning of a revolution in advocacy for, and greater awareness and understanding of, Alzheimer's disease. Since that time, the Alzheimer's Association has used this occasion to further its mission of advocacy, research, care, and support."

The Alzheimer's Association Web site tells of significant progress that has been made since that historic proclamation nearly 30 years ago. Included in this impressive list included are increased financial support, knowledge of the disease and its diagnosis, risk factors, the number of scientists researching the disease, scholarly articles written, caregiver support through the Alzheimer's Association, and the Medica Alert® + Safe Return program for those who will tend to wander.

The Alzheimer's Association site shows the tremendous progress we have made in the past twenty years; from helpless to hopeful. There is more and more hope all the time, as researchers continue to discover more about Alzheimer's, its causes, diagnosis, prevention, medication, and ultimately, a cure. All of this has been made possible as we have become more aware - through the efforts of many during National Alzheimer's Disease Awareness Month each November.

Visit our local Web site regularly for other events taking place to bring awareness to Alzheimer's disease during the month of November. www.alz.org/indiana

GRASSHOPPERS AND HARES?

by The FlyLady, Marla Cilley
Are you stuck in "I don't want to think about that now!" revolving door this holiday season? This is why "I can do that later" turns into the stress and panic of "what am I going to do now I only have a couple of days!" Think about the Fable of the Ant and the Grasshopper. We may have to blend two fables together to put a little FlyLady spin on it.

The Grasshopper played all summer as he made fun of the Ant working so hard to store up food for the winter. In the fable, the Ant turned the Grasshopper away and was quite snippy about it. Well you would be fussy too if you had worked that hard and never took a break. We have to find balance and consistency in our lives to release the stress we put on ourselves from not wanting to think about something now.

We wait till the last minute to do most everything in our lives and in our homes. You run out of toilet paper and have to drop everything to go get some. Just look at the time, energy, gas and money this has cost you! You just don't run into the grocery or any other store and come out with one item. Those stores are set up to entice you into buying other things that are not on your list.

Have you been whining or shall I say rebelling against our Holiday Cruising Missions and our Holiday Control Journal. You are determined to not think about the holidays now. We call our missions Holiday Missions not to be politically correct with all religions but to recognize that there are several holidays coming up in the next ten weeks. There is Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Hanukkah, Boxing Day, New Years Eve and New Years Day.

Everyone of these celebrations costs money. If you don't plan for them; then you will more than likely overspend or max out your credit cards. This puts a burden on you next year. When we wait till the last possible minute to think about something the stress of actually doing weighs us down. That stress makes us sick!

Oh you think you work better under stress but that is because you have never tried it any other way! When we have a plan and we implement that plan in baby steps; the holidays are much more enjoyable for everyone! This includes you! This year let's put the Holiday Banshee in the attic and throw away the key.

You can do this by joining us for our Holiday Cruise! We are pretending to go on a cruise that leaves port on December 1st. We will not return home until the 21st of December. In order to enjoy this cruise we have to get all our holiday preparations done early! We have six weeks to do this. Once they are done we really don't have to think about it again.

So let's take the fable of the Ant & Grasshopper along with the Tortoise & Hare to make this holiday season peaceful. Slow and steady baby steps will get us there. We don't have to push ourselves too hard and only think about the holidays and nothing else. We can enjoy the process and have a little fun along the way. Doing one mission a day can keep us on the path to peace! Are you ready to cruise through the holidays with your Holiday Control Journal as your itinerary?
