STAY SAFE; ALWAYS ASSUME YOU ARE ON 'THIN ICE'

Every winter, thousands of Hoosiers safely enjoy fishing, skating, hiking, or just sliding around on frozen ponds and lakes. And every year, people drown after falling through ice.

Don't let this happen to you or anyone around you.

Indiana Conservation Officers remind Hoosiers to be careful as they begin to partake in activities such as ice fishing, ice skating, or snowmobiling. Remember to put safety first. Take caution when going on frozen lakes, ponds, rivers, streams, and retention ponds. And watch for others who may venture out on frozen waterways and find themselves in trouble.

Similar to needing to drive differently on snowy versus clear roads, safely having fun on ice may require you to adjust from what you have done in the past. The rule of thumb is to believe all ice is thin ice unless proven otherwise.

Here are a few tips to remember when considering standing on or walking on a frozen body of water:

- * Assume no ice is safe ice.
- * Test the thickness of the ice with an ice auger. At least 4 inches is recommended for ice fishing; 5 inches is recommended for snowmobiling.
- * If you don't know the thickness of the ice, don't go on it.
- * Wear a life jacket or flotation coat.
- * Carry ice picks and rope gear.
- * Before going on the ice, leave a note of your whereabouts with a friend or family member.

* Don't test the thickness of the ice while alone.

Wearing a life jacket is especially important when on ice. If you fall through, a life jacket will keep your head above the water until help arrives.

Remember that a new coating of snow, while perhaps beautiful, can make for treacherous ice conditions. Snow can serve as insulation, causing water to freeze at a slower rate. When snow and rain freeze into ice, it is not as strong as solid, clear ice.

Another potentially dangerous situation is when you see a pet or other animal in distress on the ice. If that happens, do not go after it. Instead, contact local emergency response personnel, who are equipped to make a rescue.

A few more tips:

* Some bodies of water can appear to be frozen solid but still have thin ice in several unexpected areas.

* Avoid flowing water, such as rivers and streams, when covered by a layer of ice.

* Similarly, water surrounded by sand may freeze with inconsistencies in the thickness of the ice.

* Underground springs, wind, waterfowl, and other animals can also keep areas of ice thin.

Enjoy the winter weather but make safety a priority.

Kudos, Kicks & Karats

Well, I'm back and feeling better so far, still pretty congested but it's moving and hopefully it's gone by next time I write the column. As I said last week, I would like to do a year-end review on happenings. So here we go with the year end review of 2023, so much happened in such a little time.

January was Miss Ky's birthday #13, the big teenager, which was the big hit of the month, was going to the arcade for her 80's birthday party. Now I didn't really have too many 80's clothes still that I could get into, nor did I have enough hair to do the big hair, but I sure did have fun playing the arcade games. If I had every one of them quarters I used to play those games back in the day I could probably retire. lol

January was another milestone for me and my current employer Ag Express. I made it a whole year and loved everything about it.

February was a milestone for John, and he is planning on retiring in July Of 2024 or at least go part time. So, he had birthday #61 and let me tell you he is on the countdown. He also started his doctor appointments trying to figure out what is causing all his pain.

February also starts the beginning of tax season and it's a very busy time here. I think I got them all done in record time, and that was nice. Everything went smooth and no issues. Planning for the Festival in July was in the works and Tara, and I came up with a new event, A family Heirloom recipe contest.

Also, unfortunately that pesky ground hog seen his shadow and tucked tail and ran back into the hole so we were stuck with 6 more weeks of winter.

March came in like a lion and it was sure a mess. Rain, snow, sleet, flooding, I think we had everything at once. When it takes an hour to get home from the north side of Marion, then you know it's bad out. But it brought us many good things too. John was scheduled for hip replacement surgery. The Boilermakers were big 10 champs, Spring has Sprung, which brought us National weather week and trying new recipes for the fairs.

April was Easter and as always, we went off grid and had a pizza party. We're not fond of turkey so we have ham at Christmas and Thanksgiving, depending on who's cooking. So, who knows what we will have when it comes to Easter, one year we did burgers and dogs. We try to keep it kid friendly.

We were finally able to get a schedule for hip replacement for John and we were off for surgery the first week of April. It was such a blessing to be able to get rid of his pain. Everything went very well, and we were off to a good start.

CHAUTAUQUA

Twelve members welcomed in the new year at Chautauqua Club January 5, 2024. After repeating the Club Collect, Roll Call was answered with "Who is a female school teacher you appreciated very much?" Everyone had a special memory of their teachers, and many local teachers were among those mentioned. We are grateful for all the positive experiences and lessons our teachers instilled in us through the years! Many funny stories were given.

Sandy Thompson then provided some thoughts and published statistics to think about when considering "How Blessed Are You?" If you could shrink the earth's population down to a village of 100 with all human ratios the same, it would look something like this as printed from <http://epistle.us/inspiration/blessed.htm>!

57 Asians, 21 Europeans, 14 from Western Hemisphere both N and S, 8 Africans, 52 female, 48 male, 70 non-white, 30 white, 70 non-Christians, 30 Christians, 6 would possess 59% of the entire world's wealth and all 6 from the U.S., 80 would live in substandard housing, 70 would be unable to read, 50 would suffer from malnutrition, 1 would be near death, 1 would be near birth, 1 would have a college education, 1 would have a computer.

If you have food in the refrigerator, clothes on your back, a roof over your head, and a place to sleep---you are richer than 75% of this world.

If you have money in the bank, in your wallet, spare change in a dish someplace---you are among the top 85 of the World's wealth.

If you can attend a Church meeting without fear of harassment, arrest, torture, or death---you are more blessed than 3 Billion people in the world.

If you hold up your head with a smile on your face and are truly thankful---you are blessed because the majority can, but most do not.

When one considers our World from such a compressed perspective, the need for both acceptance, understanding and education becomes glaringly apparent.

If you can hold someone's hand, hug them, or even touch them on the shoulder---you are blessed because you can offer them a healing touch.

"HOW BLESSED ARE YOU?"

Have a good day, count your blessings, and pass this along to remind everyone else just how blessed we all are.

Refreshments were served by Jean Grasmik to Carmen Andereson, Nancy Bonham, Sharon Gebhart, Linda Howell, Karen Hunnicutt, Bonnie Meyers, Mary Sell, Ann Spahr, Sandy Thompson, Eva Witkamp, and Betty Yoder.

The next meeting will be Feb. 2, 2024 at 1:30.

MACKINAC ISLAND & AGAWA CANYON TRIP DAY 3, PART 2

by Larry Ryan

Prior to entering Saute Ste. Marie, MI at 1:25, it became noticeable that some tree leaves were starting to change color. Inside the city limits, our passenger vehicle passed the US Border Association building and Lake Superior State University. At a rest area we consumed the pre-packaged sandwiches bought at an earlier stop. Meals are required on bus trips.

The bus parked next to the Ojibway Hotel in the city for a tour of the Visitor's Center. That building just happened to be adjacent to the US portion of the Saute Ste. Marie Locks. A multi-story, viewing platform collected several people. My cell phone camera snapped three photographs of the numerous information placards in the building. I learned that it takes 9 hours to complete the journey through the Soo Locks from Lake Superior to Lake Huron.

And, the Great Lakes hold 21% of the fresh water in the world.

Before boarding the bus ride for the boat ride through one section of the locks, I located a small convenience store and surprised my wife with a Blue Bunny "Bunny Tracks" ice cream bar. I bought one too! This was not a sharing moment. The bus driver passed the Bumstead Construction Company before delivering us to Dock #1 of the Famous Soo Locks Boat Tours establishment. The tour boat left at 3:20 with another tour boat following in our wake. Our boat captain was in the lead! We were two miles from Lake Superior and 25 miles down this St. Marys River waterway from Lake Huron, according to one report that I heard.

Our tour boat entered the MacArthur Lock at 3:45 along with the tag-along vessel. The gigantic, swinging gates closed behind us and the water rose rhythmically until we were eye level with Canadian soil on the north side of the locks. It took 15-20 minutes and millions of gallons of water to rise 21 feet.

The boat motored past the White Fish Indian Reservation and huge piles of iron ore on the northern shore. A large flock of seagulls were nestled on the ore to warm themselves after a swim in the cool water. After passing under the International Bridge and turning around, we once again entered the locks. This time we were lowered the 21 feet before returning to the dock. On the last part of the trip, the boat passed a huge freighter, the Mesabi Miner. Two US Coast Guard cruisers and US ice breakers were also viewed. It was 5:30.

We were treated to a perfect weather day; sunny, 60 degrees, and no wind. There were only moderate ripples on the St. Marys River. Our motor coach transported the hungry passengers to the Sault Ste. Marie Country Club for dinner. My choice of white fish, thin spaghetti, and zucchini/yellow squash was delicious, but those who chose steaks were extremely disappointed, including my wife. The selection was tough and non-chewable!!

After crossing the International Bridge and passing through customs, one-by-one, our group spent the night at the Marriot Delta Hotel in Sault Ste. Marie, Ontario.

We travel north, by rail, into Canada tomorrow.

January 16 to January 31 America's first gasoline powered automobile appeared in 1893. Sixty years later, the Chevrolet Corvette ambushed the markets with a sports car that snatched a devoted following that entices tens of thousands of buyers annually.

According to History.com, "in the early 1950s, Harley Earl (1893-1969), the influential head designer for GM, then the world's largest automaker, became interested in developing a two-seat sports car. At the time, European automakers dominated the sports car market. Following the debut of the Corvette prototype at the Motorama show in January 1953, the first production Corvette was completed at a Flint, Michigan plant on June 30, 1953. The car featured an all-fiberglass body, a white exterior and red interior, a relatively unremarkable 150-horsepower engine and a starting price tag of around $3,500 (not including taxes or an optional AM radio and heater)."

For more information, the Grateful American Book Prize recommends books such as The Complete Book of Corvette by Mike Mueller.

Although California didn't become a state until 1850, it was a territory in 1848 – just in time for America to benefit from the discovery of gold on January 24, 1848 in Sutter's Creek, CA.

"A tributary to the South Fork of the American River east of the Sacramento Valley and San Francisco, Sutter's Creek was named for a Swiss immigrant who came to Mexican California in 1839," reports History.com. "John Augustus Sutter became a citizen of Mexico and won a grant of nearly 50,000 acres in the lush Sacramento Valley, where he hoped to create a thriving colony ... Sutter hired the millwright James Marshall to build a sawmill along the South Fork of the American River in January 1848. In order to redirect the flow of water to the mill's waterwheel, Marshall supervised the excavation of a shallow millrace ... Marshall was looking over the freshly cut millrace when a sparkle of light

May comes along with more and more stuff to do. We had a barn raising, plans for festival was being made, cleaning up from winter and garden and flowers being planted and upgrades done at the Woodlawn Cemetery and of course the best thing of all "Topless Day" for us Jeepers. It was a tad chilly but it's what we needed.

With Johns surgery we went with our tops on but windows down.

Memorial day weekend started the summertime cookouts and the start of the summer, and we are all ready for some summertime fun.

June, we got our barn built and so glad it's over. Still lots to do but the biggest part of it is done. It's also crunch time to start getting those recipes figured out on what to take to the fairs, working on projects for fair and everything is festival/fair oriented.

John was released to go back to work, and I was so glad for normalcy, I was able to get my house back in order and even though I was losing a good housekeeper, I was ready for this day to get here.

Along with the start of the festival we had our first winner in the family heirloom recipe contest and that was Kelly Jones with her mother Carlene Jacksons Monster Cookie recipe. I'm sure most of us have been blessed with one or two of these cookies, because when she makes them, it makes a huge batch, and they freeze well. So, we see these at the festival of trees or wherever there is a need for donated goods, they usually show up.

July closed the festival for the year and the mad dash to the fairs and projects were being done and cookies, lordy don't get me started on them, I had cookies everywhere. Ky did well in her projects once we finally got a loaf of wheat bread done to a satisfying loaf. I think it took four two loaf rounds to get a perfect loaf.

Tara and I did the same recipe contest that was a huge hit and she came out 2nd place out of 30. I was so proud of her, she is quite the baker and to think she would have never ever done this if I didn't talk her into doing the county fair all those years ago.

August started on the ruff note and I had to have hand surgery to release a trigger thumb and carpal tunnel and of all things to happen, John starts having trouble with his new hip. He was fixing some things on the Jeep, and he said he had a pop and pain shot down his leg. He walked it off but was having great difficulty, but like a champ kept on going, and of course it didn't get any better, so he made an appointment for the doctor to look at it. Got him in and did x-rays and everything looked good.

Well, we carried on and it was getting worse and worse, so he made another appointment with more x-rays, and it still looked good on the x-rays. Finally, he spoke with his pain management doctor, and they scheduled an MRI on the hip and came to find out he developed an infection in the ball of the hip and the hip literally fell apart on him. So, they went in and replaced the hip again and put extra screws in to hold it and sent him to an infection control doctor and they started him on a high dose of antibiotic regimen. So, September was a dull month of recouping and trying to get everyone healthy. We did make it to the Jamboree and were able to bring home an award for the Gladiator, but I could only drive one Jeep and the Glo Worm had to set this one out and stay home this year.

I'm sure I could have got it down there one way or another with the help of friends, but just didn't want the hassle.

October I finally got to go back to work, now I can't say I didn't enjoy the time off, but it was time to go. Many things to do, which was one, build a scarecrow and two, figure out a game for the Harvest Festival and both were accomplished, just next year we need to beef up our game because it was falling apart on us before we got a good start. But those brave souls held down the buckets and we made it through the evening with a few bruises. Tara and I decided to do chili next year, just plain and simple, that's what we do best.

A heartache always comes when you least expect it and we unfortunately had to experience it when we lost our good friend Robin. We spent many hours together whether it was working, doing projects, thinking about what else we could do during the festival, she was always our right-hand girl.

She kept us on the straight and narrow and told us we were crazy, when we already knew we were and was the first to give us the hug we needed when times were tuff. When we all quit the kitchen, we threatened to go kidnap her for the day and go shopping and just hang out, but we never did and now wished we did that one last time. She, I'm sure, understood that we all had our own lives to live but now we all just wished for that one last time to be together. Never put it off, you never know when your time up is.

November and December started the holiday season 2023 and Thanksgiving was charcuterie boards and soups, Black Friday sales, candy making and cookie baking and holiday parties and dreaded birthday's (my double nickel) and Christmas.

Then of course winter weather and sickness. I started November with a head cold and on New Years day I was ill, and it wasn't brown bottle flu either. Lol Then the next week I was full on sick, which is why this article is just now getting done. I hope you all had a great year as we too had a rough but good one in the end. We are all healthy and back to work and looking forward to the upcoming year with so much to look forward to.

May you too have a bright and prosperous year.

in the dark earth caught his eye. Looking more closely, Marshall found that much of the millrace was speckled with what appeared to be small flakes of gold, and he rushed to tell Sutter. After an assayer confirmed that the flakes were indeed gold, Sutter quietly set about gathering up as much of the gold as he could, hoping to keep the discovery a secret. However, word soon leaked out and, within months, the largest gold rush in the world had begun."

On January 31, 1865, the 13th Amendment-- ratified by the House of Representatives-- stated "Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude ... shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction."

According to History.com, "when the Civil War began, President Abraham Lincoln's professed goal was the restoration of the Union. But early in the war, the Union began keeping escaped enslaved people rather than returning them to their owners, so slavery essentially ended wherever the Union army was victorious. In September 1862, Lincoln issued the Emancipation Proclamation, freeing all enslaved people in areas that were still in rebellion against the Union. This measure opened the issue of what to do about slavery in border states that had not seceded or in areas that had been captured by the Union before the proclamation."

The Grateful American Book Prize endorses Slavery and the Making of America by James Oliver Horton and Lois E. Horton.
